

Make up your mind

Time has come to make a choice this situation has gone on for far too long i am just tired of all this confusions your indecisions are driving me mad i've tried my best to wait but now my patience is wearing thin i start to feel there's something wrong, i need a change, need to go on

Make up your mind

i know its a hard feeling when u are back against the wall but you can not play on both sides and wait for someone to make your call i d rather go by myself from now on then live together in doubts and pain cause i start to feel there's something wrong, i need to change need to go on you get me, got me tricked me in your game you had me, lost me but stiched me down in the pain

Make up your mind