

So long

On the first part some people running over you but you can't even remember their names

On the other side some passerby engraved in your memory even you won't ever see them again

It's been

so long that i didn't see your face so long that i didn't hear your voice so long, i just wish it won't be so long to see you once again

Now time has ended, no chance to meet you once again Tell me why do i always have to lose things to understand that i truly care

It's been

so long that i didn't see your face
so long that i didn't hear your voice
so long, i just wish it won't be
so long to see you once again

I just wish it won't be so long